

Privacy Policy

Updated – April 2018

Revolution Audio is committed to the protection of privacy for all customers. This policy outlines what identifiable data we may collect about you, as well as how this is used. This policy may be updated from time to time. It is recommended that you periodically check this document to ensure you are satisfied with any changes.

Details we may collect:

- We may collect the following information:
- Your Name, Contact Details, Address and Job Title/Employer
- Preferences, Interests etc.
- Debit or Credit Card Details through our Payment Partner (Square)

How we use this information:

- Customer Database Records, to improve our speed when producing Quotations and Proposals for you
 - Invoicing and Accounts; these details may be shared with our Accounts Team and/or External Accountants
- Direct Marketing through E-mail Newsletters
- Market Research to better understand the needs of our customers

Data Security

Revolution Audio take the security of your data extremely seriously. All data within our customer database is password protected and our IT systems feature industry-standard security systems. Physical protection of paper-based data is in place and we conduct regular staff training to ensure modern data-protection practices are in place.

Links to Third Party Websites

We may occasionally provide links to external third parties on our own website. Whilst we undertake to check all external websites for security, we are not responsible for either their content or any use of your data by third parties. It is recommended you always check each website's Privacy Policy when visiting for the first time.

Further Information

Revolution Audio will not pass your details onto third parties without explicit prior consent. As part of the Data Protection Act 1998, you may request written details of the Personal Data we hold for you, by writing to us at:

Revolution Audio

Unit 6, Yeovil Small Business Centre, Memorial Road

Yeovil, Somerset, BA22 8WA